ORIGIN: Coronel del Maule, south of Cauquenes. Greater influence of the coast determines a cooler climate. Dry 80-year-old vines, grafted with Garnacha on País. Early harvest. Fermentation in 500-litre tanks, 10% whole bunch. Native yeast, without additions. Gently trodden by hand.

AGEING: Aged in 500-litre neutral barrels (5 years of usage) for 16 months.

This wine is defined by its personality, power and structure. With harmony and synergy, this Mediterranean variety fully expresses the character of wines from the Maule Valley.

It is an intense, deep, bright violet colour. Its expressive nose reveals red fruit like ripe cherries, along with intriguing earthy notes. In the mouth it is juicy and achieves excellent balance between structure and tension. The palate is delicious and broad with well-structured tannins and great persistence.

Cauquén or in mapudungun: Kaykeñ/ Ürüwüll. The Cauquén (upland goose) is a wild goose that lives in the dry plains that stretch from southern Chile to Patagonia. This wine pays homage to this vulnerable local species, which, just like the old vines that produce this wine, intermingle and then later reveal their full potential.
